

Research Team: Goals & Expectations

Our channel runs on great stories, and those stories start with you. You are the foundation. If the research is strong, the video is strong.

Here is how we measure success and what we expect from you to keep things running smoothly.

1. Quality & Curation

With Great Research Comes Great Stories.

- The 5-Star Standard: Always aim for cases that genuinely intrigue you. If you are bored researching it, the audience will be bored watching it.
- FOIA & Footage: If you are chasing FOIA requests, take a calculated risk. Ask yourself: Will this footage be actually clear? Does it tell a story? Is it worth the wait? You need to interpret the footage, not just find it.
- Check the Competition: Before you pitch, look at who else has covered it. If a big channel did it last week, how can we do it differently? Find the angle they missed.

2. The TTH Document

This document is how you communicate with the writers and editors. It needs to be a complete roadmap, not just a list of links.

- Be the Expert (Human vs. AI): You can use AI to help summarize, but do not rely on it. We need your brain. Write the remarks(Highlights of the Case & Researchers' suggestions and remarks section) yourself. Tell us how the case makes you feel.
- The "Key Content Source Summary": This column is vital. Please fill it out completely, following the instructions. It's not busy work; it helps the writer understand the context immediately.

- Timestamps are Non-Negotiable: Whether it's an interrogation or a long, exclusive interview, you must list the timestamps for the impactful moments. The writer shouldn't have to watch 3 hours of footage to find the 30 seconds that matter.
- Suggest Titles: You know the case best. Suggest titles that fit the specific angle you found.

3. The TTH Meeting (Tell Us a Story)

When you present your case in the meeting, don't just read your notes. Pitch it like a movie.

- Build the Suspense: Reveal the twists bit by bit, just like an investigator discovering them. Keep us guessing.
- Don't Just "Press Play": If you show footage, set it up first. Tell us what to look for. Make us interested before the clip starts.
- Own the Room: Your input is valued here. Be confident in your story.

4. Communication & Teamwork

We move fast, so we need to stay organized and open.

- No DMs for Work: Please keep all official conversations on ClickUp or Gmail. We need a paper trail so nothing gets lost.
- Update Your Cards: Keep your case cards up to date in ClickUp immediately so two people don't accidentally work on the same Case.
- Don't Gatekeep: If you find a great resource or a new archive, share it! We win as a team.
- Be Vocal: If you need resources, have a new idea, or see a way to improve a video, speak up. We want to hear your ideas.

5. Targets

- Hit Your Deadlines: Simply put—complete the targets assigned to you. The rest of the team (writers, editors) is waiting on you to finish before they can start.
